

If they deprive my poems
of their flowers
one of my seasons dies

If they deprive them
of my beloved
two of my seasons die

If they deprive them
of the bread
three of my seasons die

if they deprive them
of freedom
my whole year dies
and I with it.

from Sherko Bekas
The Secret Diary of a Rose